Red Ribbon Week 2007

Created to honor the memory of a Drug Enforcement Agency officer killed by drug traffickers, Red Ribbon Week has become a national symbol of intolerance toward the abuse of drugs and alcohol. Join the staff and students of May Watts Elementary School as we make a pledge to lead drug-free lives!

We will decorate the trees at May Watts with red ribbons to show our neighbors that we stand together against drug and alcohol abuse. Please show your support by displaying a red ribbon at your home!

Monday: Students sign class pledge banners to be displayed around May Watts!

Tuesday: Students will receive Red Ribbon Week stickers and pencils!

Wednesday: Wear Red Day! Let's show our community we support Red Ribbon Week by wearing red clothing, socks, hair clips or jewelry to school!

Thursday: Red lunch day! Bring a red treat in today's lunch; apples, licorice, fruit snacks...

Friday: Look at us as we wear our coolest or craziest sunglasses to school today!
